Cormier vs Jones 2 UFC[®] on Foxtel

LIVE on MAIN EVENT Sunday, July 30 from 12pm Midday

Foxtel is pleased to announce its pay-per-view service Main Event has re-signed its UFC[®] agreement to continue to air LIVE and encore broadcasts of UFC Pay-Per-View events. The agreement marks a continuation of Foxtel's 10-year relationship with UFC bringing Australians PPV fights and additional UFC programming on its Main Event channel.

The deal kicks off with the long-awaited UFC 214 fight between UFC light heavyweight champion Daniel Cormier and former title holder Jon Jones on Sunday July 30 from 12pm (AEST) LIVE and encored throughout the day on Foxtel's Main Event.

Taking place at the Honda Centre in Anaheim, California, UFC 214 will see current champion Cormier seek to avenge his 2015 loss as he defends his title against former titleholder Jones. More than a year after their last fight was cancelled, their feud outside of the ring continues to boil with both fighters using press opportunities to sling insults at each other.

The UFC 214 main card will also feature a title fight between current welterweight champion Tyron Woodley and top ranked contender Demian Maia for the welterweight crown, along with Cris Cyborg facing Tonya Evinger for the women's featherweight belt. Click here for Full Fight Card.

On Sunday, September 10 from 12 pm LIVE on Foxtel's Main Event, UFC will host its first-ever event in Edmonton, Alberta, Canada with UFC 215, live from Rogers Place. The event is headlined by UFC flyweight champion Demetrious Johnson, who will look to make UFC history by defending title for the 11th time. UFC 215 will also include a women's bantamweight showdown between Amanda Nunes and Valentina Shevchenko. Click here for Full Fight Card.

In addition to the five hour UFC Fight Night events including the Post Fight Show on Main Event, Fox Sports continues to broadcast a range of weekly UFC programming such as UFC Countdown pre-shows, The Ultimate Fighter, weigh-ins and more. See foxtel.com.au/tvguide for more information.
